A child stands in a crystal chalice, created by Stas Kadochnikov in collaboration with Tatiana Zaitseva, symbolizing the dream of peace through the lens of childhood memory. The bronze figure of a boy — modeled after the artist as a child, wearing his pilot father's helmet — holds a blue balloon: a symbol of hope and a peaceful sky. Emerging from a delicate crystal form etched with stars and cityscapes, the child becomes a universal image of innocence and the enduring human dream: "A clear sky over the world — humanity's dream."

A poetic exploration of love beyond earthly bounds, Extraterrestrial Love depicts two bronze figures — a man and a woman — seated on a crescent moon suspended above a granite sphere symbolizing Earth.

The moon becomes both vessel and symbol: a celestial boat of intimacy navigating the infinite cosmos.

The lovers, weightless and serene, embody a state of emotional and physical union that rises above the gravity of everyday life.

The sculpture blends romanticism with sensuality — the moon's crescent form alluding not only to the night sky but also to the cycle of passion and the creative force of life.

At once intimate and philosophical, the composition speaks to the power of love as a liberating, cosmic force — an eternal journey shared by two souls. Suitable for exhibition in any cultural context, this work serves as a universal symbol of love unbound by time, matter, or distance.

Mother Teresa

International Rehabilitation Center for Ukrainian Children of War

Under Management of The Soul of Ukraine Foundation, Inc., a US Division of the Soul of Ukraine International Charitable Foundation

Message of Gratitude

For three years, we have been working tirelessly to raise the funds needed to establish a Rehabilitation Center in Albania for Ukrainian children who became disabled as a result of the devastating war brought to their peaceful homeland. We have sent out hundreds of heartfelt appeals to major global companies—most of which, sadly, went unanswered.

But we refused to give up.

Today, two renowned Ukrainian artists are making an extraordinary gesture. They are offering treasured pieces from their lifelong private collections—remarkable works in bronze and glass, each carrying not only artistic beauty but also a deep personal history and emotional weight.

These are not just artworks; they are symbols of hope, resilience, and love.

All proceeds from this charity auction will go directly toward creating the Mother Teresa Center—a place of healing, dignity, and new beginnings for children who have suffered unimaginable loss.

With your kindness and support, we believe this long-awaited dream can finally become a reality.

Thank you for standing with us.
